

GLI ASIA HIRES NEW DEVELOPMENT REPRESENTATIVE FOR KOREAN MARKETPLACE

MACAU (20 July 2010) – Gaming Laboratories International has hired a new development representative to work with suppliers and regulators in the Korean marketplace and Asia region. Andrew Choi will be based in the company’s GLI Asia office in Macau.

Choi holds a Bachelor’s degree in Mechanical Engineering from Kookmin University in Korea and most recently served as a software engineer for F2Systems, Inc. where he oversaw development of multiple projects. He has also worked for Para Enterprises and Onlinicis Inc., consulting on GLI and SAS protocol certification.

GLI Senior Director of Engineering & Client Services Ian Hughes said, “We are thrilled to have Andrew join our team in GLI Asia. Since celebrating its grand opening just months ago, GLI Asia has grown very rapidly, and we anticipate that Andrew’s expertise will help us to continue to move forward in this very exciting part of the global gaming industry.”

For more than 20 years, Gaming Laboratories International has been the world leader in independent testing for the gaming industry. With 16 testing laboratories spread across Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, South America and the United States, GLI is the only global organization of its kind to hold both U.S. and international accreditations for compliance with ISO 17025 and 17020 standards for technical competence in testing and inspection services.
